Building permits for 64 houses in 1983

The homebuilding picture brightened considerably in Wilmington in 1983. Building permits were issued for 64 homes, with a total value in excess of $3,000,000. There were only 37 homes built in 1982, and 24 in 1981.

Total value of building permits issued exceeded $26.5 million, including $18 million for 16 industrial buildings. Not all that value will appear on the tax rolls for the year, though, because the valuation on any new building is based on what has been built by January 1.

The largest of the new industrial buildings are those of Sweetheart Plastics and Compugraphic. Sweetheart's new warehouse off Main Street has a value of $4,000,000. Compugraphic is adding a second building to their headquarters on Ballardvale Street, at the intersection of Routes 125 and 93. The new building, three stories tall, will cost $3.5 million.

A significant amount of industrial construction is also taking place off Andover and Ballardvale Streets. Two large buildings, worth $1.4 million and $600,000, are being erected by the Tambone Corporation on the former Phil Park property on Ballardvale Street, adjacent to the Charles River Breeding Laboratories. On Jonspin Road, off Andover Street, two industrial buildings are under construction, for $924,000 and $727,000.

Wood heat continues to be popular in Wilmington. Of 515 building permits issued, 51 were for wood or coal stoves.

Compugraphic construction

Compugraphic Corporation is currently adding a three-story building to its Ballardvale Street complex. The new building will give CG an additional 125,000 square feet, to be used for engineering and research. The company estimates that 350 persons will be employed in the new building.

Monday will be 'Drug Awareness Day'

Wilmington selectmen have declared Monday, January 9, 1984, "Drug Awareness Day" in Wilmington.

Robert Stutman, director of the Federal Drug Enforcement agency, with responsibility for the New England area has been invited to speak to the Wilmington community. Mr. Stutman has previously worked as an undercover agent, supervisor of street operations for the Drug Enforcement Agency, supervisor of all international training conducted by the Drug Enforcement Agency and has met with heads of foreign law enforcement agencies and U.S. Ambassadors arranging training and discussing the world wide program. While director of congressional affairs of the Drug Enforcement Agency, he worked closely with members of Congress briefing them relative to current drug problems. He has spoken to hundreds of civic groups and has assisted numerous school systems in forming drug prevention programs.

Mr. Stutman will spend the day at Wilmington High school talking to the students and teachers. He will meet with the community in the evening beginning at 7:00 in the Wilmington High School auditorium.

A new and exciting film will be aired followed by Mr. Stutman's presentation "Smugglers to School Kids." The program will conclude with a question and answer period.

The Wilmington Chemical People Task Force in conjunction with the Wilmington School Department will sponsor this worthwhile program. Area residents are urged to attend as the program is for better understanding of a serious problem in our society.

All surrounding Chemical People Task forces are extended an invitation. For more information contact officers Shelley or Spencer at 658-5071 or 658-5072 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Remember - January 9, Monday night, at 7:00, Wilmington High School auditorium. Those attending will be surprised to learn how far the problem has reached in our society.

Which holds — old by-laws or new?

Does a non-conforming use, under the bylaws of Wilmington as they were a year or so ago over-rule the new bylaws voted by the town in 1983?

That was the crux of an argument before the Wilmington Board of Appeals on December 27.

Attorney Simon Cutter, representing Mancini's Restaurant, argued that because the restaurant is a non-conforming use, under the old bylaws, the non-conforming use still holds, and he can get a permit to enlarge the building. The owners seek to add 5020 square feet to the dining area, so they can seat over 100 diners.

It seemed to be the opinion of Chairman Bruce MacDonald that the current bylaw is the one to use, under the circumstances. He ruled that there would be no opinion given until he could consult with Town

Counsel Alan Altman.

MacDonald told Cutter that "if you change the use, or you are expanding you definitely come under the new bylaw."

A second case of interest was one proposed by James V. DeCarolis, Tewksbury builder. Mr. DeCarolis proposes to erect a single family home on a 10,000 square-foot building lot on West Jamaica Avenue, to be, he said, a home for his daughter next summer.

The proposed building would be in an R20 (20,000 square feet) zone. It would be located between West Jamaica Avenue and Allston Road. But DeCarolis had the Webber Amendment, so-called on his side.

The Webber Amendment allows lots of land that was buildable lots back in the early 1950s to be buildable lots today. In those days 10,000 square feet was the minimum size. And the lot owned by Mr. DeCarolis was "land courted" back in 1922. There is absolutely no question but that the land was a separate building lot in the 1950s.

DeCarolis, however, has to get agreements from the Water and Sewer Commissioners before the Board of Appeals will rule. DeCarolis had several items he proposed, and was told the only persons who can rule on those items were the water and sewer commissioners.

Blanchard Road plan needs approval

A plan of land for houselots on the south side of Blanchard Road was ruled a plan "requiring approval" by the Wilmington Planning Board, Tuesday night. Because of the decision there will probably have to be a public hearing before the board will sign the plan.

When the plan was approved a couple of months ago, four houselots were shown on the southerly side. The plan that had been submitted, and which was refused shows five houselots.

The section of Blanchard Road shown is that which is westerly of Kendall Street.

A new plan for a subdivision of Oxbow Pastures was submitted. About eight persons were in attendance, watching the proceedings. The plan proposes to divide the property into 13 houselots.

Oxbow Pastures is off Woburn Street, at the end of Eames Street.

The town engineer had nothing to report, regarding the Delaney 'houselot' on Marion Street extension. An agreement was to be made, during the Christmas weeks.

A parking plan was submitted by Altron, for property between Jewell Drive and Main Street. It was readily approved. Needed, for the plans of Altron, is parking space for 415 cars. The plan provided spaces for 453.

Altron is preparing plans for an addition to their building which will be nearly double the present size. At the present time the building has a floor area of 64,000 square feet. The new building, to be two stories high, is being planned to have 117,000 square feet.

Financial aid workshop at WHS

A major area of concern for college bound students is the area of financial aid. In order to help students finalize their plans the Wilmington High School Guidance Department has arranged a financial aid workshop for Tuesday, January 10 at 7 p.m. at the high school.

The key speaker will be Walter Costello from the University of Lowell. The following topics will be addressed:

1. Relationship of the admissions process to applications for financial aid.
 2. Estimating your eligibility for financial aid.
 3. Types and sources of financial aid.
 4. Steps in planning to pay for college and applying for financial aid.
- During the evening the new financial aid form (FAF) will be distributed. This is a key document in determining eligibility and requires the presence of parents to accurately complete all information.

On January 24 a follow-up program will be presented at the high school featuring Anthony DeLuca. Mr. DeLuca will be available that night at 7:30 to answer questions regarding the FAF.

Brown promoted as Lt. Nee retires

James J. Gaffney, prominent Republican

A funeral mass is being held today at 10 a.m. at St. William's Church in Tewksbury for James J. Gaffney, 67, of East St., Tewksbury. Mr. Gaffney passed away Saturday after a heart attack. He had been in and out of the hospital for several months.

He was known as a 60 minute lineman, while a student at Harvard University. He became a decorated artillery officer in World War II, attaining the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. He was the retired chairman of the Massachusetts Industrial Accident Board and served his Town of Tewksbury for 15 years as moderator and for three terms on the Tewksbury School Committee.

A native of Danvers, Mr. Gaffney captained the Harvard football team while a junior in 1936, and earned a number of post season honors. While at Harvard he took ROTC training and after graduation in 1937 he became a part of the 26th Yankee Division.

During World War II he served with the US Third Army under General Patton, in France. He earned the Silver Star for heroism and the Purple Heart, after a shell had severed his right leg below the hip. This was during a heavy German counter attack near the city of Metz.

Mr. Gaffney, after the war, worked with the Newmarket Manufacturing Company of Lowell, and later with the Southwell Combing Company in Chelmsford. He handled industrial relations for both firms, and was also of service to other firms of the Lowell industrial area.

Statewide Mr. Gaffney became an influential member of the Republican Party, and was the deputy state chairman. He was a friend and confidant of Governor John Volpe. He directed the last successful election campaign of Senator Leverett Saltonstall, and the first bid for Governor by John Volpe. He became the governor's chief secretary and one of his closest personal advisors.

Governor Volpe named him chairman of the industrial accident board in 1962. He retired in 1972, and after retiring was elected the president of the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards.

He is survived by his wife of 41 years, Mary E. (Reardon) and six children. There are three sons, John J. Gaffney, III and Charles Gaffney, both of Tewksbury and Kevin A. Gaffney of Boston, and three daughters, Mary Elizabeth Gaffney of Winchester, Anne Moriarty of Sudbury and Martha D. Gaffney of Tewksbury.

There are three brothers, Thomas of Maine, Gerard of Salem and Kevin Gaffney of Danvers; two sisters, Mary Wilson of Salem and Joanne MacDonald of Minnesota. Two grandchildren also survive him.

The burial is to be in the Tewksbury Cemetery. The Farmer and Dee Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Kaufman disappointed with Italy on return visit

Mico Kaufman, Tewksbury's noted sculptor, recently paid a revisit to Italy in 1983.

European born, the soft spoken Mico spent four years in Italy after World War II (1947-51) attending the then Royal Academy of Fine Arts. It is now the Rome Academy. During those four years he became fluent in the Italian language. One can say Mico added that language to his repertoire.

Mico visited Italy because some of his art was to be exhibited in Florence. It was 32 years since he had been there. Below is a verbal account of the events:

"I couldn't miss the chance of seeing my art exhibited in a flossy palace and in an atmosphere of international ambience. Moreover, I was a member of the U.S. delegation. It was quite a change from my student days - the days of 'suppli' (rice croquettes), streetcars and military cots.

"How might Rome or Florence have changed? Would my aged perception still jibe?

"You do not just visit Italy, I know. You let it permeate you by the process of osmosis. This time though, I went whole-hog, as though it were to be my last trip.

"I have seen art to the point of saturation, but in two weeks in Italy I saw more than I had seen in the U.S. in 30 years.

"I won't presume to speak of Italy's art, there would be no end. This time I am in the 'telling power' of the superficial. I am enjoying myself, just for the fun of it. I will try to share some of the disparated takes, from what I saw.

"The trip started in a manner that remained consistent throughout. We, about to board, were looking at a huge plane for some 30 minutes before boarding time. Then the announcer advised there would be another five minutes delay while the plane was still being cleaned.

"Ten minutes later one solitary man, toting an electric broom, came down the ramp. The huge plane was now ready for boarding. I was seated in the upper deck, the first class hump of the 747. It seems they had run out of non smokers seats downstairs, where my fare belonged.

"The ambassador section has 20 seats, in six rows. I'd swear everybody there was smoking pot.

"Rome, when I got there, would be as beautiful as it was 30 years ago, if only 99 percent of the automobiles were taken off the streets.

"The industry of canned spray paint must be in good condition, in Italy. All kinds of political slogans and depressing obscenities blight the buildings and venerable monuments. The discernable pattern is of leftist orientation.

"One of the reasons I visited Rome was to revisit the Academy of Fine Arts, where once I was a student. I just couldn't wait. On a Sunday, when Rome was shuttered and deserted, I went to visit the old place.

"I found it. But I could not be sure, except for some inscribed plaques I knew. The building was so defaced, with hateful slogans, that I never went back.

"That evening, the first in Rome, we went to the restaurant 'Aurora' in the heart of Rome. It took 20 minutes to be seated, and 90 minutes to be served a lousy lasagna and an inedible plate of veal. The bill was 35,000 lire - that's $22.00!

"It was back to sandwiches. No wonder the self help restaurants have sprouted in Rome, and are they mobbed!

"At the Piazza Esedra there is a huge circular collannade, sheltering elegant stores. We took a walk through the old haunts.

"An old lady lies on some soiled pillows against a column. Around her, comfortably sprauled are a couple of dogs and many half-grown pups. They bark at passers by. No one minds.

"On a main sidewalk a young man with a well trimmed beard sits, yoga fashion. He cradles a big peaceful black dog. The world passes him by. Alone with his dog, he is in a constant stream of human indifference. He could be an American.

"In the recess of a ponderous, artfully sculptured door, a hobo is seated, propped against its jambs. He slowly takes off a heavy sock and seems absorbed in what he might find inside it.

"We had a couple of four hour guided tours by bus. Each time the bus picked us up at the hotel, on a 'sharp' Roman schedule. That means 15 to 30 minutes late. The bus stops in the Piazza San Bernardo. All buses stop there, and you should see the traffic jam!!

"We sit there for 20 minutes, cooped up like chickens going to market. The bus drivers exchange pleasantries and family news. Then they announce - The English speaking go to bus 26, the French to bus 27, the German to bus 28, etc. . . .

"The tour is a hurried one. Inevitably there is a scheduled stop at an 'approved' souvenir shop. There you can 'take all the time you need.'

"Florence, poor Florence. Its narrow alleys gag with tourists, automobiles and dogs.

"A big dog drags its helpless female owner to the middle of a one-way narrow Florentine street. He haunches there: The leash goes limp. He deposits something to embarrass a cow. That's all it takes to cause a traffic jam.

"I saw many pedestrians scraping their heels against door steps, trying to shake off a catch. Be advised that admiring something, while walking, is a hazardous business. I am talking of dogs. There is also an overabundance of pigeon droppings, thank heaven.

"Occasionally an unexpected contact takes place between a pedestrian and a mini-automobile. It is harder to scrape that off. That's why it is called 'Un' accidente.' There are lots of them, too.

"Let me cover one hotel in Florence. The rest will have to wait. It was 'first class,' booked specifically for the International Members of our Medallion Congress; elegant halls, all marble.

"At 11 a.m. I got the keys to the room. The cleaning lady wasn't yet finished. She said, 'You can't have it until 1:30. At 11:20 I break for lunch.'

"For bedding, the room had two cots and mattresses, well decked of course. There was also a novel and most entertaining shower. There was all the cold water you could use, and the warm water comes just before the shut off. Then there is a trickle. Ditto for the wash basin.

"If you should turn on the air conditioner, or the heater the fuse will trip. A 'Cameriere' will courteously show you how to turn it on again.

"If you don't like the shower, you can have a room with a bath but no shower. It is all hooked up to the same system. You can have it for slightly over $100 a day.

"Yes, Italy is a wondrous country, with truly beautiful people. I left it with regret, and with the anticipation of one who realizes that he has grown soft and spoiled."

Music students play for Olin employees

Students from Wilmington High School are changing the scene in industry these days by planning ways to make a contribution to the working people of the town. December found 16 students from Mr. Luther Enstad's chorus wending their way to Olin Corporation to sing carols for the staff.

Mugs of coffee in hand, people gathered in the training room to hear a varied selection of traditional and modern carols and Jewish holiday songs accompanied by the talented Mr. Enstad on the guitar.

Students lending their handsome voices to the occasion were Joe Caimi, Ed Cuoco, Dawn Dow, Vickie Ellsworth, Diane Gillis, John Hacker, Lisa Hawkins, Larry King, Paula Malenchini, Andrea Marino, Susan Maxwell, Tony McCarthy, Carroll O'Brien, Jackie O'Brien, Diane Sennett, and Rosemary Todd.

The music was beautiful and the sense of community it provided was a pleasure to all.

Christmas music

Secretary of State establishes Voter Hall of Fame

Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly has established a voter award program entitled, "Voter Hall of Fame."

The Voter Hall of Fame will consist of Massachusetts citizens who have voted in every election which he or she was eligible to vote in for at least 50 years.

Applications are available at the town clerk's office or, Elizabeth Carey, town clerk, will mail the application form, upon request, to any eligible Tewksbury resident.

In order to meet the requirements for induction into the Voters Hall of Fame, the candidate must be a Mass. resident, a registered voter and have voted in every election for at least 50 years.

In addition, the candidate will be responsible for encouraging the registration of at least two new voters.

Applications must be submitted to the Secretary of State's office before January 20, 1984.

Upon verification of eligibility, Secretary Connolly will honor those selected by publicly inducting them into the "Voter Hall of Fame" in Boston.

Learn to lose weight sensibly

"I was 30 pounds overweight and tried dieting by following a 600 calories per day diet, eliminating starches, fat diets, and even attempted fasting," said Marilyn M. Pasierb, R.D., M.S., Regional Health Center in Wilmington nutritionist and weight control group leader. "But I found the best and only practical way to lose weight is by following a sensible, nutritionally sound eating plan and by changing my eating habits."

Ms. Pasierb will teach others how to lose weight and improve nutritional habits and choices through the 12-week weight group, "Learning to Lose," an educational nutrition and weight loss program.

The program will include maintaining food records, eliminating extra foods through identifying hunger, changing eating behaviors, keeping the motivation to lose weight after a period of time and rates of calorie loss through exercise.

"Learning to Lose" will also include discussions on decreasing fat and sodium intake, fiber in the diet and eliminating temptations for sugar.

"We can help people lose weight through changing eating behaviors," explains Ms. Pasierb, "such as slowing down eating, eating at the same time, in the same place and only when sitting, and not participating in other activities. Participants will learn to identify their own real hunger. All of this can be examined by having people keep a log or diary of not only what they eat, but the other habits associated with eating."

It's better to be patient and lose weight slowly and safely, about a pound or two a week, and know that it can be permanent weight loss; rather than losing five pounds in a week, only to regain it soon after," nutritionist Pasierb said.

The course will be held on Monday evenings, beginning January 16 from 7 to 9, at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. The course is limited to 12 participants and there is a fee which includes all materials.

Marilyn Pasierb has extensive experience as weight control group leader, including teaching at USC in Billerica, through an American Heart Association grant and at Columbia University (N.Y.) Health Services. She received her Master of Science in nutrition and public health at Columbia University Teachers College. Ms. Pasierb also has experience in individual adult nutrition counseling.

Pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 567. Take off those extra pounds you gained during the holiday season by getting in shape with the guidance of an experienced health professional. If you are considering this medically-sound program, but are not sure, please call for a brochure outlining the program.

Tewksbury census forms in the mail

The annual town census has been mailed to every resident. Town Clerk Elizabeth A. Carey recommends that the form be completed and returned to the town clerk's office before January 31, 1984.

Compliance with this state requirement provides proof of residence to protect voting rights, proof of residence to apply for lower tuition for all state colleges, veterans' bonus, housing for the elderly, and related benefits, as well as providing information for the selection of jurors. The school census provides projection for future enrollments and related benefits.

which allows the school administrators to apply for additional state and federal funding.

Residents of Carnation Drive, Saunders Circle, Flucker Heights, or the nursing homes need not complete a census form. Census information on each resident is acquired from the secretaries at the elderly housing or nursing home offices.

Additional information regarding the voting precincts has been included. All registered voters at each residence are urged to read this information to ascertain their precinct number and location.

Rev. Miller's magic

The Rev. Willis Miller, former pastor of the Wilmington Methodist Church was at the Wilmington Rotary Club on Dec. 28, performing feats of magic for young people. For the older people he also had some words of wisdom.

He is now pastor of two churches in Salem and has occasional visits with an old friend, the Rev. Fr. Francis Mackin, formerly the curate of St. Thomas Church.

Todd Hughes, about six years old, is the young man who is being handed more money than he had when he started, as part of a magician's tricks. The Rev. Miller likened the event to the parable of the loaves and the fishes.

Wilmington's classiest act

Three of the classiest members in the growing ranks of former Wilmington High School athletes who have gone on to take some very large steps toward personal and professional fulfillment were honored at the weekly Rotary Luncheon December 28.

Megan Donnelly ('82), Karen Rowe ('83) and Mary McNaughton ('83) all received their Army Scholar-Athlete Awards at last week's luncheon, while later in the week they appeared on local cable television to discuss their successes both athletically and academically.

Ray Durling ('83), a former Wilmington High School hockey captain, also was an Army Scholar recipient, receiving his award from WHS Athletic Director Jim Gillis earlier in the week.

The three young ladies and Durling are in a class by themselves in the classroom and on the playing field. But all their abilities would become tainted were it not for the dignity with which they carry themselves and their genuine respect for all the advantages that participation in athletics has offered them.

Gillis, who recommends which students deserve such honors, is quick to note that athletics together with the necessary good work in the classroom provides young people with the opportunity to attend a top notch college or university at cut rate costs thanks to scholarships that often come with combined scholastic-athletic ability.

But make no mistake about these particular young people. They are not athletic superstars going along for the free college ride. The rather soft spoken young women and Mr. Durling are all good athletes with the ability to devote the necessary time and effort that it takes to be successful.

Wilmington student-athletes, like most in the Merrimack Valley, believe very strongly in the work ethic. In 1984, most young people want dearly to make the system work, not alter it, as was the case throughout much of the two prior decades.

Megan Donnelly

Megan, a sophomore at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst majoring in physical anthropology, was recently selected to the All-American Field Hockey Team.

Megan played field hockey (MVP), softball and basketball at WHS, garnering the Top 10 Award (earned by senior athletes who finish in their class' top ten scholastically), the Dr. Fagan Award (outstanding athlete) and a special coaches' (basketball) award.

Miss Donnelly was ranked sixth in her senior class at Wilmington High School.

Karen Rowe

Karen is a 1983 Wilmington High School grad majoring in psychology during her freshman year at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where she has cracked the varsity basketball squad as a teammate of former Tewksbury High School star Jerrie Bernier.

Miss Rowe (ranked second in her WHS senior class) also received the Top 10 and Dr. Fagan awards while playing volleyball, basketball and spring track at WHS. She was an all-star performer and a captain of all three squads during her senior season.

Mary McNaughton

Mary has helped Holy Cross to a national cross country ranking while also being selected as a Cross Country All-American.

The freshman is a pre-med major who was an MVP on the cross country, winter and spring track squads at Wilmington High School. Mary also is an outstanding swimmer who has earned her share of honors in that particular sport.

Mary, captain of the cross country and winter track teams during her senior season, also earned a Top 10 Award and the Lawrence Cushing Sportsmanship and Scholarship Award following her senior year.

Miss McNaughton was ranked first in her senior class at Wilmington High School.

Megan, Karen and Mary are all former Junior Rotarians.

(The sports editor regrets that additional information on Ray Durling was unavailable at press time).

TMHS matmen off to a roaring start

Coach Al Donovan's Tewksbury

play of Boudreau (5 points, several steals and big free throws) that saved the Redmen.

Senior forward Steve Gale played his best game of the season with 13 points in place of an ailing (hip pointer) Steve Sinclair, junior forward Mike Bosia buried nine and senior guard Bill Saunders stuck in seven points.

In the second game Bedford got by Wilmington, 56-54 thanks to some poor shooting from both the floor and the charity stripe by the home club.

Junior Bill O'Donnell keyed the WHS attack with 12 points, senior sank a pair of free throws late in the game to give the Tewksbury High School basketball girls a 42-41 victory over Wilmington and third place in the ULowell Christmas Tourney played last week.

Missy keyed the TMHS attack with 13 points, sophomore guard Karen Hennessy hooped 10 and senior guard Karen Hennessy finished with five points.

Nancy DeStefano, Eileen Griffin and Val Greene had four points apiece for the Redmen.

Senior tri-captain Linda Nistico topped the Wildcats with 15 points, while junior center Gail Lombard canned 12.

The victory evened the TMHS slate at 2-2, while the Wildcats dropped to 0-5. Earlier in the tournament the Redmen were bombed by Chelmsford, 58-39 before the Wildcats fell to Acton, 65-38.

Tewksbury had scored ULowell Tourney championships in 1981 and 1982.

Redskins the pick

The Redskins are my pick to take their second straight Super Bowl with a victory over the Los Angeles-Oakland-New Jersey Raiders in what could be one of the best Super Bowls in many years.

Washington plays this game exactly the way it was meant to be played, and even though I am a great admirer of Al Davis, Jim Plunkett and Lyle Alzado, my respect for John Riggins wipes out any interest I have in the Raiders winning, and I am a diehard AFL-AFC fan dating back to the Chiefs' victory in Super Bowl IV.

TMHS girls even record

Tewksbury High School's winter track girls evened their record at 1-1 Monday with a 52-33 victory over Haverhill at the Methuen High School Field House Monday.

Tewksbury placed first in seven of the 10 events, sweeping the shotput and the 50 yard dash.

In other Merrimack Valley Conference track action last week, Billerica ripped the TMHS boys, 57-28, Chelmsford bopped the WHS boys, 68-17 and Billerica got by the Tewksbury girls, 51-35.

First class

Former Wilmington High School scholar-athletes (l-r) Megan Donnelly, Karen Rowe and Mary McNaughton were honored for their achievements at last week's Wilmington Rotary Luncheon.

High School wrestling squad was off to a roaring start going into last weekend's Lowell Holiday Tournament.

The Redmen had pinned defeats on Reading (34-27), Masconomet (39-21), Lynnfield (39-21) and North Reading (43-18) while placing a strong second in the Triton Regional Tournament.

Tewksbury champs in the Triton tourney were Steve Flaherty (107), Paul Ferdinand (114) and Steve Voto (121).

A second spot went to Dennis Perry (100), with thirds to Scott Weissensee (128), Mark Donovan (134) and Paul Mills (158).

Some impressive early season individual records were being compiled during the opening four match stretch. They read: Flaherty (8-0), Ferdinand (8-0), Steve Voto (8-0), freshman Brian Aylward (147, 3-0-1), Perry (6-2) and 187 pounder Paul Stephens (4-1).

TMHS hoopsters

K of C Tourney runner-up

It was close but no cigar for the previously unbeaten (3-0, 1 kid you not) Tewksbury High School basketball Redmen in the annual K of C Christmas Tourney played over two nights last week at Wilmington High School.

The opening games were both tense and pressure packed, with the Redmen and Bedford advancing in a field that included North Reading and the host Wilmington Wildcats.

That first night saw TMHS freshman point guard Tim Boudreau take charge to fire a comeback that was capped by a 62-60 TMHS victory over North Reading in double overtime.

Junior forward Brian Dick's medium range jumper with 25 seconds left in the second overtime provided the margin of victory.

The Redmen survived senior Dave Whitney's (21 points) foul out in the first overtime thanks to the poised

Corner jumper

TMHS sophomore guard Karen Hennessy launches a corner jumpshot over a Tyngsboro defender in action earlier this season. Karen and her mates took a third place in Christmas tournament action last week. Details appear in this week's Sports Notebook.

Elks' Hockey Tournament

Wilmington shares title, 3-2

Dennis Moran scored two goals and assisted on a third as the Wilmington High School varsity hockey squad clinched a share of the second annual Elks' Christmas Hockey Tournament with an exciting 3-2 victory over Woburn's Joyce Junior High Monday night at Woburn's Joyce Junior High Arena.

Coach Bill Cullen's Wildcats finished tourney play with three points after tying Wakefield last week, 3-3.

Wilmington fell behind 2-0 in the second period before Moran caught fire with a goal assisted by fellow tri-captain Dean Athanasia at 11:43.

Athanasia tied the game at 2-2 late in the third period with Moran assisting.

Dennis then notched the game winner at 11:57 when he tucked the puck home off a scramble in front.

Wildcats' goaltender Don Gunn came up with 20 saves, while Woburn netminder Dave Rufo turned away 16 Wilmington shots.

Wildcats, Redmen to contend for title

Wilmington and Tewksbury, a pair of youth hockey hotbeds for many years, have benefited many times over from youngsters' involvement with the sport in what seems like minutes after they learn to lace up a pair of skates.

The 1984 season will prove to be no exception to the rule of high school hockey excellence in both towns, what with the Wildcats and the Redmen coming off tournament semifinal appearances a year ago with the knowledge that they each have enough solid returning people to battle it out for the Small School title in the somewhat shaky Merrimack Valley Hockey League.

For several years a select group of three or four teams have rolled up most of the victories, with some slight improvement seen at Central Catholic and Methuen.

This year, clearly the league's strongest teams are Billerica and Chelmsford, and fortunately for the Wildcats and the Redmen, both of those teams compete in the Large School division.

This is not to say that the two local squads won't be at or near the top of the tournament pack when all is said and done. It is very likely that the Wildcats and the Redmen will be right there with this league's Big Four come tourney time.

Wilmington Wildcats (15-4-1)
Veteran Wildcat coach Bill Cullen has another top notch team on his hands despite losing 15 seniors to graduation.

A year ago the Cats made it all the way to the tournament semifinals after winning the MVHL Small School division championship. Franklin High School managed to nip Wilmington in the Eastern Mass. Division II semifinals to bring the team's super season to an end.

Cullen has lost Jim Smith (19-20-39), Dan Ward (12-16-28), Frank Newark (8-14-22), Kevin Smith (10-11-21), Bob O'Connell (7-9-16), Bob Curran (15-24-39), Ray Durling and rugged defenseman Ed Olson to graduation, so clearly the first problem will be replacing all that firepower.

The Cats have some experienced and talented backup and starting players returning to fill the 1984 void however. They include a line of senior tri-captain Dean Athanasia at center, senior tri-captain Dennis Moran (team leading 49 points a year ago) at left wing and senior Brian Tully at the ring wing position.

MVHL rivals

The TMHS hockey squad will miss star goaltender Ed Walsh (shown in action against the Wildcats a year ago), but will boast a solid defense and enough firepower to compete with the always tough Wilmington team in the Small School division of the Merrimack Valley Hockey League.

The second line has some people who can put the puck in the net as well. Junior Dave Richards will center this line with twin brothers Brian and Scott Robins on the wings.

Wilmington's defensive pairings will be senior tri-captain Kevin Cullivan and junior Dave Fuller; juniors Steve Caizzi and Dante DeMarco; and juniors Dan Kane and Jack Meeker as the third tandem.

The goaltending appears to be stable enough in the hands of senior Don Gunn and junior Bill Wolfe, a talented netminder who played between the pipes all through the youth hockey ranks.

Tewksbury Redmen (15-5-2)
Coach Joe Robillard's team shared the Small School division title with the Wildcats a year ago and finished their 1982-83 season with five wins in their last six games. The Redmen, like the Wildcats, bowed out in the Eastern Mass. Division II semifinal round of the tournament.

Tewksbury will be bolstered by the return of one of the league's top players in senior tri-captain Joe Seluk, who a year ago scored 29 goals and added 18 assists.

The team however must find a replacement for graduated super goalie Ed Walsh, who carried the team on his back for most of last season's tourney drive.

Hoping to fill the Walsh gap will be seniors Steve MacPherson and Scott Nelson along with sophomore Dave Carney.

The TMHS strong suit appears to be defense despite the graduation of Tom Carpenito. Juniors Scott Thornton and Craig LeDuc are back with the addition of junior transfers Russ Mann (from Austin Prep) and Darrell Favreau (from Central Catholic). The team will get some defensive depth from sophomores Joe Mottolo and Bob Ware, both products of a fine youth hockey program.

Tewksbury did graduate some fine players in Pat Tremlett (13-15-28), Terry Feran (6-7-13), Glen Fougere (10-16-26) and Mark Walsh (10-14-24).

The team will be bolstered however by the return of senior left wing and alternate captain Dana Tower who was sidelined by mononucleosis last season.

Also seeing some ice time on that first line with Seluk will be wing men McGrath (senior) and Jimmy Blum (junior).

Both the Wildcats and the Redmen opened with the annual Elks Tournament at Woburn, with the Wildcats grabbing a piece of the tourney's title.

Wilmington teams get mixed results

Wilmington's travelling basketball squads received mixed results last week, as the sixth graders won their first game of the season against North Andover, but the eighth graders had their four game win streak broken by Methuen.

Saturday the seventh and eighth grade teams traveled to Methuen, only to go down to defeat in both games. The seventh graders lost 47-29 despite a fine effort by Steve Hanafin, who hit for 11 points while pulling down 21 rebounds.

Ron Pennie and Brian Pupa followed with four points. Jeff Bowen had three, Brian Davis, Neil Penttinen and Jason Oliver two each and Mike Buonopane had one.

Helping in the rebounding department was Bowen with four, Buonopane with three and Mark Palmisano with two rebounds. Defensive action was provided by Jonathan Masse and Mark Vigliotti.

The second game of the day saw Methuen end the four game winning streak for the eighth graders. Mike Lombard led the scoring, as he hit for 20 points and grabbed 23 rebounds. Pat Nally followed with six, Don Corson, Joe McMenimen and Tim Fay had three. Tony DeSantis, Tim and Tom Moran each had two points and Danny Woods one.

Rebounding support came from Eric Penttinen, Nally, McMenimen and Fay, all of whom pulled in three rebounds. Anchoring the defense was Kevin Ouelette, Paul Maiella and Jonathan Oliver.

Sunday the boys returned home to the Shawsheen Tech gym, where the sixth graders won their first game of the year, defeating North Andover, 34-29. Scoring was led by Mark Bobek and Mike George, both hitting nine points. Jamey Robichaud was close behind with eight points. Mike Burns and Bob Caruso had four points. Bobek pulled in three rebounds, Scott Tuxbury two and Chris Riccio one.

Smith helps spark Curry College

The Curry College hockey team ended the first semester of play on a winning note with a 5-1 victory over perennial rival Nichols College December 13. The win brought the team's record to 6-3-1 at the holiday break.

The Curry victory was the second in four nights against Nichols, as the Colonels outscored the Bisons, 15-3 in the opener Dec. 10. It was the most goals ever scored in a game by a Curry hockey team.

In the Dec. 13 game the Colonels fired 19 shots at the Nichols' goaltender in the opening period, but came up empty. The second period was a different story, as the winners exploded for five goals, including two by sophomore wing Tim Flaherty of Scituate. Other goals were registered by sophomore Mike Tevenan of Hyde Park, freshman Dave Hallet of Medford, and captain Barry Parker, a senior from Hanover.

Leading the Colonels in scoring once again has been Parker with 15

Shawsheen Tech cheerleaders shine

Whittier Regional Vocational High School recently sponsored the first annual Commonwealth Athletic Conference Cheerleading competition. Five New England Patriots' cheerleaders opened the evening with an impressive demonstration of their dance and cheering process, then donned their satin warmups to judge high school squads from Tyngsboro, Shawsheen Tech, Whittier Tech, Northeast Regional, Manchester, Georgetown, Lynn Tech and Greater Lowell.

Between 7 and 9 p.m. the squads performed three and one-half minute routines with an optimal minute and a half dance.

The Shawsheen Tech football squad, performing in its' initial competition, built three two and one-half tier mounts, performed the optimal dance to Michael Jackson's "Don't Stop Til' You Get Enough," and chanted original verse written especially for the competition to bring home the tournament's second place trophy.

Darin Colarusso to receive Bausch & Lomb Science Award

Darin Colarusso of 7 Scaltrito Drive, has been named winner of the Bausch & Lomb Science Award at Wilmington High School. The award, a handsome bronze medal, is presented each year to winners at more than 8,700 participating schools throughout the United States and Canada.

"The Bausch & Lomb Science Award is especially significant," according to Richard Fardy, acting director of science, "because it recognizes the senior student at our high school who has attained the highest scholastic standing in science subjects."

As winner of the award, Darin is eligible for one of several four-year

Bausch & Lomb Science Scholarships at the University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y. Scholarship winners are selected on merit, and stipends, based on need, could range up to $7,500 per year. Surveys indicate that the award has encouraged more than 30 percent of the winners to follow scientific careers.

Bausch & Lomb, with headquarters in Rochester, New York, is a world-wide manufacturer of vision care products and scientific instruments. In 1983, it became the parent firm to two Wilmington companies, Polymer Technologies and Charles River Breeding Laboratories.

Sophomores learn about drinking and driving

The Wilmington High School science and social studies departments recently invited Kenneth Carew of the Massachusetts Safety Council Traffic Services Division to give a presentation entitled "Drinking, Driving and You" to members of the sophomore class.

The primary focus of the presentation was to make students, who are just reaching the legal driving age, more aware of the extent to which alcohol impairs driving skill and the serious consequences of alcohol-impaired driving. During the course of the presentation, many myths, half truths and much misinformation about alcohol and traffic safety were clarified.

Mr. Carew gave the presentation in two sessions, over a two-week period, to medium sized groups of students and was very well received by them.

The students will get "hands on" experience in all elements of theatre including building and painting sets, stage lighting, acting, makeup and publicity. Every student will be involved (both on stage and backstage) in the play which will complete the workshop with performances on Saturday and Sunday, March 24 and 25.

Registration for the workshop and auditions will take place Saturday, January 14, at 10 a.m., at the Abundant Life Christian School, Wilmington (where the workshop sessions will be held beginning Saturday,

Board of Appeals

The Board of Appeals took the case under advisement, and DeCarolis will appear again before the board on January 10.

Winston Whitmarsh of Longview Road was granted a variance for his home. It was erected some years ago without the standard dimensions for the sideyard being observed.

Marie Manning of 33 Aldrich Rd. was granted a variance to allow for an addition to her home, in back of the building, and no wider than the present home. The addition will be non-conforming to the zoning bylaw. The case was heard on December 13.

Clement Thresher of 11

Shawsheen Ave. was also granted a variance. His case was heard on December 13. Mr. Thresher's home is the old Middlesex Canal building northerly of Shawsheen Avenue, the former home of the late Olivia Norcross. Olivia was a descendant of the last lock keeper on the canal, Daniel Gowing.

Mr. Thresher's problem was that the building was not in accordance with the standard dimensions, required for a side yard. The problem had not been discovered until he had agreed to sell the home.

Thresher is planning to build a home elsewhere in Wilmington.

Successful season

The older citizens of Wilmington consider themselves very fortunate. The Christmas season is to most of them very sad and lonely. At the drop in Center attempts are made to lift the spirits of seniors during this time of the year. Gifts are taken to frail and disabled senior shutins. Financial assistance is given to those in need. Companionship is provided to any and all seniors at the center. Open house parties were held at the Drop-in Center Friday, Dec. 23 and Friday, Dec. 30. Throughout the day, over 140 seniors were in the Center socializing with other seniors and over 50 gathered in the rec hall at Deming Way for Christmas dinner.

Accomplishing the job of reaching as many seniors as possible requires the help of many of the healthier colleagues. To all who helped in any way the Council on Aging extends its grateful thanks for a job well done.

Council meets Monday

The Council on Aging January meeting will be held at the Drop-in Center Monday, January 9, starting at 1:30 p.m.

Dr. Leavitt January 6

Podiatrist Dr. Leavitt will be in the Drop-in Center Friday morning January 6 from 9 a.m. to noon. Those to be treated should remember to have Medicare or Medicaid cards available.

Hot lunch program

The hot lunch program has resumed. It is important to call the center for a reservation the day before planned participation. Those who cannot keep reservations should call the center before 9:30 a.m. the day the meal is to be served.

Clothes available

There are many clothes at the Center. A large number of winter coats, dresses, pants, etc. They are all in good condition.

Health hazards

Winter and cold weather bring many health hazards. These range from broken bones due to falls to heart attacks, frostbite and asthma. While everyone's health is endangered by lengthy exposure to very cold temperatures, the old are particularly vulnerable. Even mildly cool temperatures of 60 to 65 degrees can trigger a condition known as accidental hypothermia, a drop in deep body temperature that can be fatal if it is not detected and treated properly. Diseases of the veins and arteries and treatment with certain drugs make a person more susceptible to this condition. All aged should avoid prolonged exposure to even mild cold without taking care to keep warm. Because many aged persons are particularly vulnerable, they should consider keeping their homes at temperatures of at least 70 degrees. They should wear adequate clothing and have enough blankets on their beds.

"Cats": Is it entertaining or frustrating?

By RICK PEARL

To say the least, "Cats" is a highly unorthodox production. That makes it a musical that is either one of the most entertaining you'll ever witness, or one of the more frustrating. Emotions are, inevitably, mixed with a play that breaks new ground. "Cats" is such a play, and, in this reviewer's humble opinion, it's one of the more enjoyable performances you'll have a chance to see.

"Cats" is based on the poem "Old Possum's Book Of Practical Cats" by T.S. Eliot, who is better known for his epic, "The Wasteland." Eliot wasn't exactly your average, run-of-the-mill author, so it seems only natural that his work be different. Different it is.

"Old Possum's Book..." was actually written for Eliot's grandchildren in a series of letters. He probably wrote them for the children's parents, as well, for when they praised his work he promptly had it published in 1939.

Taken in that context, as a series of vignettes about a group of "Jellicle" cats, the musical can be followed quite easily. Unlike most plays, "Cats" has scenes in it which, if discarded, would not take away from the whole. It starts with lurching, uneven tales that seemingly have nothing to do with one another. In the second act, however, when characters are reintroduced, and mysteries start to unravel, "Cats" makes purr-fect sense.

The life of "Cats" is not a smooth one, and each has a different story to tell. The way in which the collective story of this group is told is a marvel of modern theatre.

To start with, the sets and costumes will make you howl with pleasure. The stage is transformed into a huge dump, with newspapers, discarded stoves, cans, fish heads, and tires reaching high into the mezzanine. The lighting (kudos to David Hersey) is spectacular: a series of multi-colored strings draped across the stage, audience, and rafters. And, just as cats come in many shapes and sizes, so too do the costumes, designed by John Napier (he also did the sets).

With that said, let's also not forget the spectacular dancing. If you've got a cat, or know of one, watch him or her closely some time. Notice the body and head movements, and the strong sense of grace and power. Those very same movements are incorporated into "Cat's" dance numbers. They are also included in the motions the cats make while they are strolling or lounging about. The choreography was done by Gillian Lynne.

Eliot's lyrics were set to music by Andrew Lloyd Webber in their originally published form, although a few have been subject to a minor revision of tense or pronoun, and eight lines have been added to "The Song of the Jellicles." Some of the lyrics, including the story of Grizabella, the tarnished glamour cat, were discovered among the unpublished writings of Eliot. "Memory," which many of you may recognize as a song that Barry Manilow and Barbra Streisand made popular with recorded versions, is suggested by "Rhapsody on a Windy Night" and other poems by Eliot. Trevor Nunn, who directs the production, put together much of the unfinished work to complete Eliot's package.

What little plot there is to "Cats" lies in the story of Grizabella, played to perfection by Laurie Beechman. She was once on top of the cat world, but has since fallen on hard times. She is disenchanted by members of the Jellicle community and slinks about the stage in a pitiable manner. Eventually, she is welcomed back to the clan and is put in a position of respect for her suffering. "Memory" is her song, and the way she sings it will move you.

Other enjoyable cats to look for are The Rum Tum Tugger (Rich Hebert), Old Deuteronomy (Kevin Marcum), Mr. Mistoffelees — who's tale/song, I think, is the best of the bunch — (Jamie Torcellini), and Old Gus, the Theatre Cat, who, in a flashback, becomes the awe-inspiring Growltiger (both parts played by Sal Mistrretta).

The Growltiger scene is a great one, as Gus reflects back on his biggest performance, and, instantly, the set changes in front of our eyes to a pirate ship where the hero battles fiercely against a band of Siamese to protect the fair maiden.

"Cats" received seven Tony awards in 1982 and it isn't hard to see why. It offers a new way to present a musical, and, although somewhat unorthodox, it's as entertaining as anything else that's hit the Boston theatre scene this year.

Thoughts over the holidays

FM TALK: Thoughts that crossed this columnist's mind over the recent holidays:

A sure indication that our economy is doing better: a furrier in western Massachusetts is advertising custom-made mink coats for Cabbage Patch Dolls. The price tag for these mini-furs? A mere $500!.....If this extremely frigid New England weather has you down but you can't afford a trip to Rio or the islands (perhaps that mink coat for your Cabbage Patch Doll this Christmas has you temporarily broke), I have the perfect solution for that pale complexion of yours: a visit to a tanning spa. A couple of local fellows, Michael McKanas and Gary Goldstein, have just opened Mr. Tan, at 64 Middlesex Turnpike, in Burlington. What a great way to at least look like you've been to Rio in January. Tell Michael and Gary yours truly sent you, and they might even throw in a palm tree during your visit.

Would someone please tell me why those readers of Time magazine in the Time magazine tv commercial are always smiling or grinning stupidly while they're reading the magazine? Granted, Time is a super news periodical, but I honestly don't find much humor in it. Yet the people in those commercials lead you to believe Time is the funniest thing to come down the pike since the National Lampoon. Then the commercial immediately switches to a scene of some major outbreak somewhere, taboot! I realize the Time people want us to think reading Time can be great fun, but that's a little ridiculous, if you ask me. Stick to informing us, Time, and leave the laughs to Mel Brooks.

Something that was pleasantly enjoyable was watching the film "Terms of Endearment," with Shirley MacLaine, Debra Winger and Jack Nicholson. You know what made this film particularly enjoyable? It's the first film I've ever seen that contained a love scene between two people who actually looked like real people, not mannequins. When you go to the movies as often as I do, you quickly burn out on watching Brooke Shields making goo-goo eyes at some young and handsome stud. It was refreshing to see Jack Nicholson bare his bulging midsection in front of his totally believable next door neighbor, played so convincingly by Shirley MacLaine, whom he had been dying to date for about a decade and a half (and she pining away equally for him). Maybe director James L. Brooks is handing us a bogus film, one that accomplishes exactly what he set out to do (that is, to make all of us identify with those characters up there on the screen), but that's O.K., because it works and I, for one, loved it.

On the other hand, like many others who grew up during the sixties, I was deeply saddened by the death of Beach Boy drummer Dennis Wilson. It seems like just yesterday that I was sitting in the first row at Boston Garden to see and listen to the Beach Boys perform their latest surfing hits. I went so far as to make sure I had a wide-striped, button-down, short-sleeved sports shirt and a pair of off-white Levis to wear when I attended their concerts. The Wilson brothers (Dennis, Brian and Carl) had their share of hard times (particularly Brian, who suffered through a period of drugs and then a nervous break down); Dennis's death is a tragic chapter in the twenty year story of this amazing group.

Here are some statistics you may want to ponder over, especially if you are a drinker (and worried about having to face that new, so-called fool-proof breathalyzer recently unveiled by the Department of Safety): there

Woodchips

The parishioners of St. Charles Church, in Woburn, received a wonderful Christmas gift, the assignment of one of the most dedicated men of the cloth I know, Father John Mericantante. He has recently returned after volunteering to serve two years as a "Missionary Priest" in Chile, South America. Father John is a native of Winchester and was associate Pastor at St. Anthony's in Revere before leaving for Chile.

Be prepared to be Charmed by his ready wit and ever present smile, thrilled by his beautiful operatic tenor singing voice and what I, (an old foggy) loved best of all - sermons that were short, brief and concise but explained the Gospel Message of the day without repeating it seven times. So, welcome to St. Charles, my friend of many years - may you help him as he labors in our Lord's Vineyard for the greater glory of God.

Here's the way my nephew, Dennis Tully of North Reading described a Red Sox game he saw to his mother, (my sister Kathleen). "Boy what a game! Both pitchers had a no-hitter going for three hot dogs and two root beers, then in the bottom of the second box of popcorn this guy hit a homerun and the Sox shut them out for the last two ice cream bars and three cotton candies and here I am home just in time for dinner Ma!"

My dog is neither a setter or a pointer - he's more of an "Up-setter," and a real "Disappointer." My cousin Marie Connors, is a classical piano player. She left a note for her husband Gary saying, "I went Christmas 'Chopin,' have long 'Liszt,' so naturally I can't be 'Bach,' in a 'Minuet'."

One of Gary's ever present cigars charred the keyboard last week - it marred the appearance of the piano but seemed to improve its tone. You ought to hear how melodic, "Smoke gets in your eyes" sounds now. To achieve high goals, dreams and noble purposes, one like the "Marksman" must aim a little higher than the mark and never be discouraged like the rooster who lamented, "What's the use, yesterday an egg - today a rooster - tomorrow a 'Feather Duster.'"

Dr. Albert Kelley, a Chiropractor, loves to work in his garden. As a hobby he told me he intends to plant some "Paul Bunyan Corn" next year. His neighbor, a retired electrician Charlie White, planted some "Bulbs" this fall, 100-watters - I know he won't get any tulips next spring but if he wires them he'll have the brightest garden in the area.

Mr. Robert Spence, of Woburn, please take notice. At our annual Christmas party my Aunt Maria of Wilmington was sitting alone so I asked "May I join you?" "Good grief," she responded, "Am I falling apart?" I sat down and for two hours I didn't say a word - I didn't want to interrupt her.

HANS BRINKER

The Boston Children's Theatre will proudly present the dramatic story of "Hans Brinker" this winter. Join us in the inspiring tale of two poor Dutch children living outside of Amsterdam by the icy canal. After a severe brain injury their father, cannot work and their mother must spend her time nursing and taking care of the poor man. Because there is not enough money for good food and other necessities, Hans Brinker and his sister must skate on crude, wooden homemade skates that hurt their feet and cause them to fall. Nonetheless, the two children compete in the skating race on the great canal for the finest possible prize, a pair of silver skates.

Don't miss this exciting production put on by the delightful children of the Boston Children's Theatre. "Hans Brinker" will play for eight performances only on February 18, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26 and March 3 at 2:00 p.m. at New England Life Hall, 225 Clarendon Street in Boston's Copley Square. Ticket prices are $3.50, $4.50 and $6.00. Call us now at 277-3277 for reservations and brochures. Ask about group rates and discount parking.

The Boston Children's Theatre also invites children, ages 8 to 17, to join our Creative Drama Classes now in progress. A number of course selections are offered after school and on Saturday mornings. Call 277-3277 for information.

1000 PEOPLE DANCING

Aerobathon '84, an 8 hour non-stop aerobic exercise marathon, will take place Saturday, February 11 from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. at the Park Plaza Castle on the corner of Arlington Street and Columbus Avenue, Boston.

A fundraiser to benefit the American Heart Association.

Aerobathon '84 will showcase over twelve of Boston's finest exercise instructors, each leading a segment of the program. More than 50 fitness clubs and studios have been invited to participate by providing an instructor and a team of dancers for the event, by conducting a fundraising campaign in their own facilities, and displaying information about their facilities and cardiovascular fitness.

Dr. Howard Hartley, President of The Greater Boston Division of the American Heart Association, said that "Our Dance for Heart program is just part of our national campaign aimed at reducing the risk of death and disability due to heart disease - this nation's number one killer."

Back Bay Racquet Club, located adjacent to the Castle, will serve as headquarters for the event. Tim Berringer, Manager of BBRC and one of the coordinators of Aerobathon '84 said that "We want to give the public an opportunity to learn more about cardiovascular fitness. With the very best gathered in one facility, we are offering 'one stop shopping' for those realizing that regular exercise enhances one's quality of life."

Aerobathon '84 is open to men and women of all ages. Registration forms may be picked up at participating facilities or by calling BBRC at 262-0660.

JAPAN MONTH

The Boston Children's Museum welcomes 1984 in true festive Japanese tradition during January. Join us for a month of colorful events as "The Year of the Mouse" begins.

Kicking off the schedule is the Museum's annual Japanese New Year festival, Oshogatsu, Sunday, Jan. 8, 11 a.m. - 4 p.m. Festival participants can pound rice into holiday Mochi cakes, write the first calligraphy of the year, Kakizome, or play Hanetsuki, a battledore and shuttlecock game. Other Oshogatsu activities include songs by Japanese Language School children, Suzuki violin demonstrations by the New School of Music in Cambridge and Japanese fencing by the Boston Kendo Club.

Japan Month offers a bit of culture for visitors of all ages. Children will delight in folk legends presented by the Enchanted Circle Theatre, and puppeteer Paul Vincent-Davis, artistic director of the Puppet Showplace, and his Repertory Puppets.

Japanese culture is renowned for its culinary craft. Don't miss demonstrations of the fascinating art of Sushi, a traditional Japanese food by Benisushi.

From fine food to fine art, mastery of skill continues. Watch ceramicist Makoto Yabe as he teaches and demonstrates the nerige technique of using colored clays to create handbuilt objects.

Each Friday night throughout January those interested in Japanese artifacts are welcome to tour the Japan Study Storage for a close-up view of the Museum's permanent Japanese collection including dolls, clothing, armor, toys and household objects. Also during the month, Dr. William Coaldrake, Department of Fine Arts, Harvard University, will give a workshop on the Kyo no machiya, entitled "Boston's Japanese House: The Living Architectural Heritage."

Mark January calendars with a visit to the Museum's Kyo no machiya, the 100 year-old house from Kyoto — decorated in its New Year's finest.

For a Japan Month brochure call 426-6500. For admission, hours and travel information, call the What's Up Line: (617) 426-8855.

The Colonial Chorus of Reading is thrilled to announce open auditions for their spring production, Kern and Hammerstein's stupendous "Show Boat". Reading and singing auditions are on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 3 and 4, with a separate dance audition to be held on Thursday, January 5. Country Journal tips

BOILED MITTENS — New England Fishermen have kept their hands warm for generations using a trick anyone can copy.

Before insulated rubber gloves, fishermen would soak their thick woolen mittens in hot water and put them on wet. They could only be worn wet because after a few baths in salt water, they become stiff as a board when dry. The mittens would shrink, the stitches tightened up and the wool became felted, and warmer.

This is not a suggestion to wear wet mittens, but you can borrow the fisherman's idea of knitting oversized mittens and then shrinking them down to size. They'll be thicker and warmer than those you can buy.

For knitting mittens use three-ply yarn with lanolin still in it. Add about an inch to the length and width of the hand and a half inch to the thumb. Then put the mittens in boiling water for five to ten minutes, and dry them next to the stove. You'll have toasty hands all winter long.

Choosing the right wax — Daniel Ford, writing in the February issue of Country Journal, reminds skiers that waxes are color coded to the temperature of the snow. Cold colors, green and blue, are for lower temperatures, and warm colors, violet and red for higher temperatures.

If there is a choice between appropriate colors for the snow, go for the colder wax. Wax your skis colder for unbroken snow and warmer for a prepared track. And, put the next warmer and colder waxes in your ski pack in case you have guessed wrong.

From safari planning to gliding over the snow, from "Annie" in North Reading to John Murray in Stoneham, COMING ATTRACTIONS has something for everyone. But, if you have detected an event of interest to all that we have overlooked, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. Our interests are as diverse as there are things to do in the New Year.

UPS AND DOWNS

Handling Your Ups and Downs: A workshop about emotions. All of us experience negative emotions from time to time. Whether it be jealousy, anxiety, anger, depression — all of our emotions have something to tell us about ourselves. This workshop is for anyone who is interested in learning more about their feelings, how to accept them, value them, learn from them, and most importantly live with them. Emotions give us clues to what we want and need in our lives and by understanding our emotions we will understand ourselves and others better. This workshop will be held on Monday evenings beginning on January 9 from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at The Creative Resource Center.

Also beginning on January 9 is the workshop: Meditation-Living With Awareness. Meditation is a tool which improves one's ability to cope with day-to-day life. In this introductory course we will first learn how to calm and steady the mind by focusing on simple objects like breath and movement. Eventually sensations become muted, emotions are at peace, thoughts cease and we become truly relaxed and refreshed.

For information on the above workshops or to receive a brochure call Susan at The Creative Resource Center at 245-0137.
